News

First responders and residents walk amid debris and destroyed homes Oct. 11 after Hurricane Michael swept through Mexico Beach, Florida. (CNS/Reuters/Carlo Allegri)

by Peter Feuerherd

View Author Profile

Join the Conversation

Send your thoughts to Letters to the Editor. Learn more

October 31, 2018

Share on BlueskyShare on FacebookShare on TwitterEmail to a friendPrint

It's a tough time to be a priest in New Jersey.

Massive parish mergers take effect in the Pittsburgh Diocese.

Catholic parishes are in the midst of hurricane recovery in the Florida Panhandle.

The Salvadoran community of Long Island, New York, celebrates the canonization of Archbishop Óscar Romero.

Marriage preparation programs are renewed, taking a cue from Pope Francis' Amoris Laetitia.

A "One Percent Challenge" encourages Catholics in Arkansas to read and study the Bible.

Parishioners react to the lack of communication about pastor changes in the Memphis Diocese. Their protests have an impact, as Bishop Martin Holley is removed by Pope Francis.

There is a plea to commission local artists for parish work.

[Peter Feuerherd is a correspondent for NCR's Field Hospital series on parish life and is a professor of journalism at St. John's University, New York.]

Editor's note: We can send you an email alert every time The Field Hospital is posted. Go to this page and follow directions: Email alert sign-up.

Advertisement

This story appears in the The Field Hospital feature series. View the full series.